ROBERT W. BURKE

DEDICATION . . .

When we entered the halls of Ipswich High School, Coach Burke embarked on the new adventure with us. As a teacher, he provided us with the background to go on to higher mathematics. As a coach, he trained us in sportsmanship as well as in the game and provided us with the guidance and understanding of a friend. After leaving Ipswich High School, we shall always with the highest admiration and respect remember Mr. Burke as a teacher, coach, and friend.

FOREWORD

Ipswich Public Library
Ipswich, Massachusetts

When we entered Ipswich High School as eighth graders, little did we realize the hard work and good times that lay ahead of us. As individuals, we were young and carefree; as a group, we were strong and united. As our five years passed, more and more responsibility was placed on our shoulders. We hope that we are now qualified to make intelligent decisions in life.

As we look through our yearbook, may we be reminded of all the past activities and scholastic achievements that have contributed to make us capable leaders of tomorrow.

CLASS HISTORY

by PAULA JODOIN

On September 9, 1953, the members of the Class of 1958 nervously ascended the stairs of I. H. S. as eighth graders. This was the beginning of five wonderful years filled with numerous, memorable experiences.

It took us quite a while to get used to locker combinations and the rampage in the corridors between periods. However, some of us didn't waste any time in finding out what detention hall was. We soon surrendered to the feeling of being looked down upon by upperclassmen and tried our hardest to settle down.

Most of us, with the exceptions of Pamela and Carolyn, lived in fear of Mr. Saba or was it his compositions? In athletics, the boys' eighth grade football team went undefeated and the girls' basketball team drubbed Lynnfield 57 to 22. It wasn't long after basketball season, that Sonya Barowy came to Civics

Class one day with a cow in her pocket which gave a moo-moo here and a moo-moo there and a moo-moo everywhere for the entire period.

We were well into the school year before we elected our first class officers: President, Eddie Saulnier; Vice-president, John Miller; secretary, Judy Denningham; and treasurer, Barbara Tetreault. Our social was held April 9. The auditorium was colorfully decorated in the spirit of Easter. Nothing, however, could beat the entertainment. Nick Georgeopoulos kept us in stitches with a Groucho Marx skit. Cyn Sklarz and Barb Patch teamed up to sing a duet of "Five Foot-Two," and Maryanne Grant and "Chick" Wetmore sang solos.

The remainder of the year slipped by in a hurried fashion, and we soon found ourselves on summer vacation. It was during the summer that some of our best-liked classmates left Ipswich.

When we arrived in the Fall of 1954 as freshmen, we found that Babs Leno, Judy Denningham, Brian Lombard, Lawrence Wallace, Robert Linehan, John Miller, and Dave Comeau were among the missing. Their places were quickly filled by newcomers. We were glad to welcome Harry Rogers, Michaleen Dziadosz, Rita Constantino, and two transfers from the St. Stanislaus School, Mary Trudel and Norma Chambers.

Being well acquainted with high school life from a year of experience, the class soon got down to brass tacks. Our class leaders for this year were President, Eddie Saulnier; vice-president Charlie Prince; secretary, Pamela Ernst; treasurer, Donna Stevens. It was during this year that we all conformed to the rules and regulations of our new Principal, Mr. Pressley.

The talent of our class was demonstrated in the Variety Show. As some of the girls should recall, they did a routine to "Singin' in the Rain" and "Ballin' the Jack" while Benny and Sandy disguised themselves as girls in a fashion show.

On March 11, we decorated the gym with shamrocks and leprechauns in preparation for our St. Patrick's Dance. It was spring by now, and everyone was out for baseball or softball. The freshman girls proved their worth in their first softball game by defeating Lynnfield 37 to 10.

The spring led to summer again, and we descended the steps of I. H. S. for the summer recess. During the summer we went our separate ways, but in the autumn the class arrived back in full force. Our class membership was increased by Judy Taft, Ray Wenninger, Carole Kieffer, and the return of David Comeau. Yet Pamela Ernst, Barbara Patch, and David Govoni had left us to go to other schools. A double loss of Charlie and Cynthia Prince was suffered by their many friends.

This year all the biology students sat back and enjoyed watching Miss Cogswell carry on all her interesting dissections. It seems that Harry Rogers rescued a white dog, one day, before the budding biologists captured it for an experiment. In the meantime, our strong-armed Cyn Sklarz, alias Mary Atlas was giving all her strength to holding up the cheering squad; and we hope that Tom Gillespie does not still believe that Latin originated in Latin America.

The competent class officers of the sophomore class were President, Eddie Saulnier; vice-president, Lloyd Bruce; secretary, Michaleen Dziadosz; treasurer, "Trustworthy" Donna Stevens.

Mrs. Prescott patiently adhered to the study of Silas Marner until we had gained some knowledge of the story. It was during one of her classes that Chippy Bennett's pocket radio, without sufficient warning, burst out with the song "Band of Gold."

The class held its Valentine Snowball Dance on February 13. The walls and backboards of the gym were attractively decorated with Cupids and hearts. The best part of the night for the boys was that the girls picked up the tab.

With the hustle and bustle of the end of a year, most of the sophomores found themselves finishing geometry projects and English term papers. The year was soon ended, and the class left again for vacation.

As we returned in the fall, we were finally considered upperclassmen. This year there were many new faces among the faculty and administration as well as in our own class. Mr. Connon assumed the position of principal and Mr. O'Kane, with his trust in the student body, impressed us as our new superintendent. Graham "Radar" Reedy joined us from Beverly Trade and "Rib" Stevens returned from Essex Aggie. Patricia Ayott and Sandy Logan also added to our class membership. Meanwhile Brian Gallant and Carol Adams had left us.

Those who captured the titles of class officers this year were President, Eddie Saulnier; vice-president, Harry Rogers; secretary, Paula Jodoin; treasurer, Donna Stevens.

Many of the girls had a crush on our new history teacher, Mr. Grady. Within a month, though, we all had to settle down as "Muzzey Juniors." We could never have survived without Mr. Sine's sharp sense of humor or the entertainment resulting from the perennial battle of Mr. Sine versus Mr. Grady.

Many of the junior boys played varsity football this year. Tony, Brian, and Eddie, however, displayed their talents as cheerleaders by forming their on private squad with their own private cheers. The boys seemed to have adopted the expression "hook on" or "smarten' up."

Thanks to the Ring Committee, headed by Donna, the class received their class rings before Christmas.

The year was pacing right along, and the girls' basketball team found that they had practically gone through their schedule of games without realizing it. We're sure that Barb, Cyn, Kathy, and Donna won't forget the last game with Rockport and the never-to-be-forgotten stop at "Smith's Market" on the way home from the game.

U. S. History classes were quite interesting this year. An odd fact came to light when it was found that Jimmy Dziadul's homework was being done by Joe Stalin.

On sped the year, and it was not long before we were caught in the spell of the Junior Prom. The girls busily picked out their formals while the boys withdrew their bank accounts. All the industrious committees worked efficiently. The decoration committee selected the theme "Orchids to You" and pondered over many ideas of their own. On May 3, the committee members decorated the gym with large and small orchids, and with dancing couples mounted on pastel-colored stairs; and a magnificent chandelier made of purple, violet, and white streamers surrounded by clusters of gold stars hung from the center of the ceiling. At 9 o'clock the class officers led the entire class through a speedy Grand March. The remainder of the evening was enjoyably spent dancing. And another unforgettable experience was chalked up in our memories of our junior year.

In the latter part of May, the Juniors produced a one act play in honor of Memorial Day which proved successful. At an assembly about the same period, the new members to the National Honor Society were introduced to the student body by the tap system. Those securing this deserving honor were Charlotte Whitney, Donna Stevens, Harry Rogers, Sonya Barowy, and Lloyd Bruce. Donna was also chosen as our Girls' State Representative and Lloyd, with Robert Sheppard and Benedict Andreozzi were chosen to represent us at Boys' State.

The last social event of our junior year was the Springtime Cabaret organized by the junior cheerleaders and supported by the entire squad.

Once again we left the halls of I. H. S. with only one year remaining when we returned in the autumn of '57. And when the class did assemble for the first day of school 1957, we proudly marched into our first Chapel and, as seniors, took the front seats—to follow the customs of previous seniors. The fun of being together in home room and being first in lunch line helped us to feel like seniors. And we mustn't forget how the freshmen girls fell head over heels for our—handsome senior boys.

Knowing that this would be a busy year, we diligently lectured our class officers as soon as possible. Bruce Lord became our new president, and Lloyd Bruce was elected vice-president. Donna remained at her post as treasurer for her fourth year while Paula resumed her position as secretary.

The football team, presided over by Co-captains Brian Pailles and Tom Hills worked to their fullest capacity and came through by breaking even. The spirit of I. H. S. was boosted by the successful rallies held by the cheerleaders headed by Carol and Cynthia. The season ended with a well-earned victory. That night Tony Georgopoulos was presented a gold football trophy for being the most popular football player. A few weeks later Graham Reedy was presented the Hellenic Men's Club Trophy. Graham's football ability had been one of the team's stimulating assets. Both Tony and Graham were well deserving of their honors.

In October we chose Loring as our photographer. When the photos arrived there was the traditional swapping of pictures. It was after the football season that we lost Bob Green to the senior class of Topsfield High.

Basketball season drew the attention of many of the seniors. The girls team, led by Co-captains Cynthia Sklarz and Donna Stevens, racked seven wins against only two defeats. Meanwhile in the classrooms work always prevailed. P.D. classes always supplied interesting topics for discussion which were usually stimulated by Liz MacLead or Sally Morrison, and Ellie could always be counted on to give her candid opinions. Shorthand classes were often inspired by the salt and pepper shakers of the senior class, Anne Hennessey and Cathy Enos. Somehow Miss Allen persistently directed our minds toward the moral implication of Shakespeare's Macbeth.

Lloyd Bruce, among his many deserving honors, became Good Government Day Representative. Paula Jodoin was selected D. A. R. girl. The Betty Crocker Homemaker of the year award was won by Carolyn Chambers. Charlotte, Lloyd, and Sonya were chosen to present graduation essays.

One of the last activities of the senior class was the presentation of the Senior Play, "More than Meets the Eye." The dramatic talent of the class was displayed by those securing parts. It could hardly have been a success, though, if Miss Allen and Miss Blodgett had not directed and managed it entirely.

As we sit here today, the faculty probably wonders how they have tolerated us for five years. It is only because of their patience and guidance that we have survived our high school cycle. And so the functions of the Class of 1958 have come to an end. Soon we will all go our separate ways, but we shall never forget the experiences and friendships shared together in these five memorable years.

GIFTS TO THE GIRLS

by PETER KASZUBA AND GRAHAM REEDY

We traveled the country both near and far
In Graham's latest Model A car,
We searched and searched through every town,
But gifts to the girls could nowhere be found.
While strolling one day, we happened to see
At the very tip top of an old elm tree
A wise old owl who chanced to say
That the gifts could be found in Ipswich Bay.

So we put on boots—a safety measure
And went to look for the buried treasure.
We found these hiding in a giant clam
So we took the gifts and away we ran.
So here I am with my classmate
To present to the girls of '58
These varied gifts—some large, some small
As happy reminders of us all.

GERTRUDE AMERAULT
Gert works very late each night
To awaken so early just doesn't seem right,
We give to her this little white clock,
With an alarm you can hear for nearly a block.

PATRICIA AYOTT
Pat is headed for the altar
We present to her this leash and halter
To keep her Francis by her side
Where, we hope, he'll always abide.

PATRICIA BARON
Pat hopes to become a nurse some day.
We hope that nothing will stand in her way.
In case a patient comes down with the chills,
You can plan to give him these little pink pills.

SONYA BAROWY
For Sonya, we have this tennis ball
If you like to play, just give her a call,
We hope that she will always have fun
While playing out 'neath the summer sun.

CECILE BEAULIEU
For Cecile, we have an unusual gift
Which we hope will give her quite a lift.
This blank diploma should suit her fine
To graduate with Freddie, next year, this time.

BERNICE BOWEN
Bernie will soon wear a wedding ring
We wish her the best the future may bring.
This land deed we think she'll like best,
In order to build her little love nest.

CAROL AND CAROLYN CHAMBERS
The Chambers twins will have to part
Even though it may break their heart,
We give to them this fancy sweater
To remind them of their days together.

NORMA CHAMBERS
For Norma, who is our class saint,
We have this can of bright red paint,
Since saints have halos round their head
We want hers to be real bright red.

ANN COGSWELL
To Ann, who writes to a college lad
We'd like to give this pen and pad.
Whenever she's blue, she can send a letter
Which ought to make her feel much better.

RITA CONSTANTINO
For Rita, who has pretty long hair
A sight around school which is very rare,
We give to her this bottle of shampoo
To keep it shiny the whole year through.

ROBERTA DAMBRA
To "Bobby" Dambra who's very quiet
We give this trumpet to start a riot.
So that we'll know when she's around
She can blow real hard and give out with the sound.

ELEANOR DAVISON
Ellie Davison is soon to wed
Or so we've often heard it said.
We give to her this little cookbook
So hubby may have that happy look.

JUDITH DODGE
For Judy, who heads for Salem each day
To send her merrily on her way
We give this watch of solid gold plate
To make the trains—and never be late.

MICHAEELEN DZIADOSZ
Our "class actress" is Mike-alee
And her success seems very likely.
We give to her this golden "Oscar",
So she'll never be called a rank imposter.

CATHERINE ENOS
To Cathy goes this huge soap box
From which to launch her timely talks,
She may now explain her various views
On whatever may be found in the news.

ELIZABETH GRANT
Betty's friend lives far away
So she can't see him every day,
We give to her this speedy jet plane
Now she'll never have to take the train.

MARY ANN GRANT
Mary Ann wears the smartest shoes
She seems to have all colors and hues
To keep them all as shiny as new
This transparent polish will surely do.

JOYCE GREENOUGH
To Joyce who works at the A & P
And has so little time to be free
To enjoy a little relaxation
We give a check for 2 weeks' vacation

JANE HAMMOND
To Jane, who's always seen driving her car
And we know she often travels quite far,
This coupon for gas we know she will like
And hope that she'll never have to hike.

ANNE HENNESSEY
This laughing gas reminds us of Anne
Her sense of humor should please any man.
But we don't really mean to offend
For Anne is really one fine friend.

JUDITH HUDSON
To Judy who is always riding around
With a new companion she just found
We just so happen to have for you
This "Chevy" which is painted bright blue.

PAULA JODOIN
Paula is surely an all-round gal
One we consider as a really fine pal.
This bag of kisses we hope will be handy
But don't get excited, they're only candy.

CAROLE KIEFFER
To Carole, who is our cutest girl
We give this everlasting curl.
We hope that she will always be
Fair and pretty to her Hills-i-e.

BEVERLY KNOWLTON
Beverly sells delicious candy,
Everyone says it's fine and dandy,
Try this sample—a new kind of taffy,
We hope it'll make your customer's happy.

DORIS LEET
Doris really likes her work
And is most proficient as a clerk,
This pen and notebook she will need
To help keep up her shorthand speed.

CAROL LENSKEY
Once a little blue bird said
That Carol is about to wed,
We have for her this book on thrift
And hope she enjoys our little gift.

CAROL LEVVIS
Carol's boyfriend drives a sports car,
In which they travel both near and far,
This little "chapeau" o' top of your head
Should match the car—a vivid bright red.

SANDRA LOGAN
To Sandra, who makes most of her clothes
Some thread and needles we enclose,
We hope that this will do the trick
To make her dresses neat and slick.

ELIZABETH MacLEOD
Betty and John make a handsome pair,
He's very tall—she's very fair,
These high-heeled shoes will add an inch
We hope, however, that they won't pinch.

CAROL McCARTHY
Carol is a fair-haired lass
And very popular in our class,
In this little book she can list her dates
We're sure she has many among her classmates.

CAROLYN McGRATH
To Carolyn, who has gone with many a boy
And who fills most of their hearts with exultant joy,
This little anchor, it surely seems
Should hitch her to the boy of her dreams.

CAROLE MIGNEAULT
For Carole we couldn't find a thing
So we bought for her this wedding ring.
We hope that someone will make a hit
And when he does, that this will fit.

SALLY MORRISON
To Sally, who is our class artist
And also considered one of our smartest,
We give to her this artist's book
So her talents none will overlook.

KATHERINE PICKUL
To Kathy whom all the boys adore
We have this gift from Quint's Drug Store,
This bottle of perfume we think is nice
And should make the boys look at least twice.

CAROL POOR
To Carol, who is rather silly
She's always joking with her Billy,
But just in case she ever feels low,
This book of jokes will help, we know.

CYNTHIA SKLARZ
To Cynthia, who will soon be a wife
We wish her a very happy life,
We give to her this nice hopechest
To prepare her for the marriage test.

DONNA STEVENS
To Donna, who was voted our "Class Athlete"
We have for her a special treat,
A pair of hand cuffs to keep on hand
So that she'll never lose that certain man.

JOAN SURPITSKI
Joan, who is both cute and witty
We have for her this little ditty,
So she can sing her blues away
And never have a gloomy day.

NANCY SURETTE
To Nancy who works in a local store
We have something that she'll surely adore,
This 10c raise in her hourly pay
Should make her happy and very gay.

JUDITH TAFT
The title "Class Baby" best describes
Judy with the big blue eyes,
To her we give this "teddy bear"
To always keep in her tender care.

BARBARA TETREAULT
To Barb Tetreault, who, night after night
Would plan a party in the pale moonlight,
This large dance hall is just the thing
Where all her friends can dance and swing.

MARY TRUDEL
Mary's earrings, we really must mention
For they attract a lot of attention,
We have for her this unusual pair
They'll really go well with her pretty long hair.

RIKI VON SUCK
A piece of Gould's Creek Landing
To Ricki Von Suck we are handing
To remind her of the summer fun
Of swimming 'neath the noonday sun.

SANDRA WETMORE
Sandra's always on the go
Her "pep" and "vim" never run low,
We have for her this sporty car
So she may travel both near and far.

CHARLOTTE WHITNEY
Charlotte Whitney, whom love has blinded,
Seems to have gone Coast Guard minded
We have for her this private phone
To bring her lover close to home.

CAROL WINTERS
For Carol, whose hands are in water all day
We have something special to make her gay,
This pair of rubber gloves will do the trick
To keep her hands looking pretty and slick.
Well, I guess that takes care of everyone
And we must admit it was lots of fun.
Before we leave, we'd like to express
A wish for your future happiness.

GIFTS FOR THE BOYS

by CAROL MCCARTHY AND CAROLYN McGRATH

As we strolled through the woods one day
Into a haunted house we did stray,
Everything was rather quiet and eerie
And we began to feel a little scary

But curiosity seemed to get the best of us
So into each room we went with a gust,
Finally up to the attic we were bound
And then what do you suppose we found?

In a corner was this huge treasure chest
Filled with gifts for the boys we like best
Those of the senior class of "58"
Who we all think are really great!

BENEDICT ANDREOZZI
Benny is quite a scholarly lad
This gift will surely make him glad,
A perfect mate matching in height
Which we hope will give him great delight.

CHARLES BEAUPRE
A boy small in stature is our Teddy,
To lend a hand he's always ready,
We have for him these growing pills
So he can see above car window sills.

STANLEY BENNETT
Chip, who is our handsomest boy,
Fills any girl's heart with joy
For him these horseblinders will serve the best
To keep his eyes on Betty and not the rest.

EDWARD BOUDREAU
Eddie always seen on the dancing floor,
Does the jitterbugs by the score,
To keep him wound up like a top
We give this key, so he'll never stop.

LLOYD BRUCE
To Lloyd we give this little pin
To add to his huge collection,
A pin to remind him of his high school days,
For all the good deeds he has done with praise.

WILLIAM BURNS
Bill, who's one of our quietest lads,
Though studying isn't one of his fads,
For him this book with answers galore
So that homework will not be a chore.

DAVID COMEAU
Dave works at the local A & P
An ambitious grocery boy is he,
This speedy scooter will help him out
To hasten his work, without a doubt.

EDWARD CRONIN
Never a dull moment with Eddie
For jokes he's always ready,
A goat for him from everyone
So he can kid them all in fun.

JAMES DZIADUL
To Jimmy whom we must declare
Has quite a way with the ladies fair,
We give him this wolf whistle to blow
In case the female supply runs low.

PETE FOOTE
Pete's always on call when there's a fire
This trait of his, we all admire,
Though a fireman's outfit he doesn't possess
We'll give him this badge to pin on his chest.

NICHOLAS GEANAKAKIS
Since Nick who lives so far from town,
In hiking, must cover a lot of ground;
This little hot rod, we know he'll like
For he'll no longer have to hike.

NICHOLAS GEORGEPOULOS
Nick's a lad who's full of fun
Out of jokes he'll never run,
But if he forgets, as time goes by
Consult this joke book, for a try.

ANTHONY GEORGEPOULOS
Tony, who is athletically inclined,
A more popular boy you couldn't find,
We present you with this star of gold
For a high place in our hearts you hold.

THOMAS GILLESPIE
To Tom, who is quite a lover of beauty,
We feel it is our highest duty
To give this scrap book of the opposite sex
Which is more interesting than any school text.

PETER KASZUBA
Pete, whose mind is always scheming,
Of some trick he's always dreaming,
For him we found this little tea bag
To remind him of the lunch-room gag.

RAYMOND LAVOIE
To Butch, who is quite a hot-rod fan,
But knows very well of the racing ban,
We give this ticket for his speeding
For all the signs he wasn't heeding.

BRUCE LORD
A faithful manager our Bruce has been
Without him, no doubt, we couldn't win,
Though no great awards has he received,
We give him this trophy for all his deeds.

CHARLES MANSFIELD
For Charlie, who has great musical skill,
The future may hold many a thrill,
So for him we have this little baton
To lead his orchestra on and on.

BRIAN PAILES
To Brian, who for our charming Paula,
Has been a very faithful caller,
This magic carpet for him to ride
And get him faster to her side.

GRAHAM REEDY
For Graham, who is heading for college,
To help increase his store of knowledge,
This sporty red jaguar should help each day
To drive college girls in a fashionable way.

HARRY ROGERS
To Harry whose voice is never loud
And can seldom be heard in any crowd,
We give this little microphone
To amplify his speaking tone.

EDWARD SAULNIER
Eddie has owned the "grooviest" cars
Some look like they came from Mars,
For him we found some permanent glue
To hold them together the whole year through.

ROBERT SHEPPARD
A great scientist our Bob hopes to be,
A trip to Mars he can surely foresee,
This little rocket will help to replace
The one he almost sent into space.

ROBERT STEVENS
Bob was voted our best dancer,
No doubt about it, he's quite a prancer,
This extra pair of shoes he'll need
For he rocks and rolls at such a speed.

ROBERT STURTEVANT
Bob may sail the ocean blue
While serving on some Captain's Crew,
This telescope might be an aid
To watch native girls while on parade.

JOHN SURPITSKI
To John, who rings up Texaco sales,
And is one of our most likeable males,
This box of green stamps will help lure
New gas customers by the score.

ALEXANDER THOMSON
A real Scotch lad is our "Sandy"
And one we know as "fine and dandy"
For him this beret with wide plaid band
To remind him of his native land.

JOHN TRUDEL
To John, who is a wonderful guy
Although we think he's rather shy,
He seldom seems to make a sound
This firecracker will change that around.

MICHAEL TULLERCASH
To Mike who works at the A & P
And works real hard, it's plain to see,
When he gets tired and needs a rest,
This leaning post will serve him best.

RAY WENNINGER
To Ray, who blushes quite a bit,
This buffer, we're sure, will make a hit.
It may help tone the blushes down
When embarrassing moments come around.
We hope these gifts you'll take in fun
We wouldn't want to hurt anyone,
Although memory of these gifts may disappear
We'll never forget the happy times we've had here.

CLASS PROPHECY

TIME: 1968

CHARACTERS: Elizabeth MacLeod and Harry Rogers

SCENE: Elevator to top of Eiffel tower

Elizabeth and Harry bump into each other, pocketbook falls to floor.

- Both: "Oh! I'm sorry." (Harry starts to pick up the contents, and notices a passport.)
- Harry: Say, are you the same Liz MacLeod who went to Ipswich High?
- Liz: And you're Harry Rogers. Remember we did the Class Prophecy together. Do you realize that we predicted over 50% correctly?
- Harry: Isn't this a coincidence that we should meet now! It seems I have met a few of our old classmates this past month. I met Sally Morrison recently. Of course, you have read about her taking over Dior's successor's salon. She has Ann Cogswell, and Joan Surpitski as models, Carol McCarthy and Beverly Knowlton as buyers; and Carolyn McGrath as secretary.
- Liz: Did you know that Charles Beaupre is president of the American Tobacco Company? When I met him in Virginia, he told me that Jane Hammond has become a policewoman for the F.B.I., and I was startled to hear that Cecile Beaulieu is a member of the Secret Service.
- Harry: I hear Jim Dziadul went to Hollywood to take over Bob Cummings' place, and his favorite model is Carole Kieffer, our "Cutest Girl."
- Liz: I bet you heard about Dave Comeau, Carol Winters, and Mike Dziadosz rising to stardom.
- Harry: Robert Sturtevant has become a doctor, and Pat Baron is his private nurse. John Trudel, of course, is in the undertaking business.
- Liz: Guess whom I met on the plane? Rita Constantino. She likes her new job as airline hostess. I was surprised to hear that John Surpitski owns the biggest Texaco station on the Alcan Highway, and Mike Tullercash has invented a car that runs on water.
- Harry: Cynthia Sklarz, who studied men, extensively, has perfected a ray for capturing them.
- Liz: A few of our classmates have pronounced the fatal words "I do." Bernice Bowen, Pat Ayott, and Carol Poor are happily married now and have among them 24 lovely children. Nick Geanakakis, I heard, eloped the night of our graduation. By the way, did you know that Eleanor Davidson is a bridal consultant at Sak's Fifth Avenue.
- Harry: As I remember there were a few girls in our class who wanted to be teachers.
- Liz: Yes, Barb Tetreault graduated from Harvard with high honors and is now teaching with Mary Trudel in Bombay, India. Speaking of teachers Mary Ann Grant runs her own nursery school for sophisticated children.
- Harry: I understand William Burns has become a poet, grown a beard and retired to Maine, Sandy Logan is an author in Alaska, and Joyce Greenough has written a very successful book on combining marriage and a career.
- Liz: Did you know that Carole Migneault is a reporter for "True Love?"
- Harry: No, I didn't. Norma Chambers has made quite a name for herself with her own comedy show on T.V.
- Liz: Yes, I know, I've watched it quite often; also the Chambers twins are demonstrators, on the G.E. cooking program.
- Harry: Kathy Enos and Ann Hennessey, who were always chattering, are making records for a talking machine company.
- Liz: What happened to Ed Boudreau?
- Harry: Oh! He became an artist, and while we're on this subject Charles Mansfield is a great musician and gives concerts when he feels like it. He lives a life of leisure, with his private secretary, Betty Grant, and his two pink swimming pools. Doris Leet has become a famous opera singer.
- Liz: Speaking of classmates, did you know that Bob Sheppard owns a spaceship line?
- Harry: No! But now I remember he was interested in flying when we were in school, wasn't he?
- Liz: Yes, well, two of our classmates have a government contract with him. Those great scientists, Pete Kaszuba and Graham Reedy, are both trying to light the dark side of the moon.
- Harry: Carol Lewis has an exciting job listening to complaints at Bob's space port. I also read about Ray Lavoie's

- receiving a space ticket. It seems that he was driving so slowly that his space license was taken away.
- Liz: Have you heard about Ben Andreozzi? He just finished building his last chain of grocery stores on the moon.
- Harry: Yes, and Nancy Surette and Carol Lensky have their own meat packing plant.
- Liz: Getting back to earth, Roberta Dambra has her own trained poodle-school and has a unique way of trimming their hair with pinking shears.
- Harry: I heard Ed Cronin is fighting for heavyweight title of the world.
- Liz: I saw Tom Gillespie the other day. He is President of Slenderella.
- Harry: Oh yes, Sonya Barowy has opened her own dancing school in Haiti and Bob Stevens is one of her popular instructors.
- Liz: Did I tell you about Gertrude Amerault? She can be seen on billboards all over the country advertising cold creams.
- Harry: Riki Von Suck and Sandy Thomson own a famous racing stable and one of their horses won the Kentucky Derby.
- Liz: You probably know that Charlotte Whitney and Sandy Wetmore have gone to Belgian Congo to become missionaries.
- Harry: Donna Stevens has come a long way since she joined the army. She is now a general.
- Liz: I read in Paula Jodoin's snappy sports column that Anthony Georgeopoulos is playing pro-football and Bruce Lord is coaching the Cleveland Browns.
- Harry: Let's get back to Ipswich. They finally got the schools they needed. Ray Wenninger and Ed Saulnier were the architects, and Chip Bennett was the contractor. I hope the roofs don't fall in. Can you guess who did the interior of these schools? Judy Taft.
- Liz: Pete Foote is now the Fire Chief of dear Old Ipswich.
- Harry: Our high school has not been defeated in any sports for the last six years with Kathy Pickul and Nick Georgeopoulos as head coaches.
- Liz: Judy Dodge is district manager of Woolworth's chain of restaurants and Judy Hudson who, as we know, had a passion for large rings, is now employed at Tiffany's in New York.
- Harry: And isn't it wonderful to read in the daily papers all about Governor Lloyd Bruce of Massachusetts. I understand that Brian Pailles makes regular visits to Ipswich High School recruiting young men for his branch of the service—the U. S. Marines.
- Liz: For goodness sakes, what are you doing now?
- Harry: Oh, I'm a janitor, and I love my job! May I ask what you're doing?
- Liz: Well, I've got a job at B.O.A.C. as a customs officer.
- Harry: It was fun meeting you, Liz.
- Liz: Yes, we'll have to get together again. So Long!

The 1957 Ipswich High Football team had a modestly successful season, breaking even in eight games. After a poor start, with only one win in five games, the "Tigers" came on strong to win their last three, reaching a scoring peak in their next-to-last game with 34 points.

The games we won are as follows:

Ipswich.....19	Lynn Trade	0
Ipswich.....12	Dracut	6
Ipswich.....34	St. Joseph's	6
Ipswich.....13	North Reading	7

The losses were—

Billerica	13	Ipswich.....	0
No. Andover	19	Ipswich.....	6
Tewksbury	13	Ipswich.....	7
Weston	19	Ipswich.....	12

For the fourth consecutive season the Student Council ran a contest to find the "Most Popular Football Player." Tony Georgeopoulos won the gold football emblem of the winner.

The Hellenic Men's Club of Ipswich, for the third year, presented a trophy to the "Most Valuable" player as voted upon by the opposing coaches. Graham Reedy won the trophy.

With many key players returning next year, the hopes are high for a better season. The Class of 1958 wishes the team the best of luck.

JUNIOR PROM

"Orchids to You" was the theme of our Junior Prom held on May 3, 1957. Following a successful Grand March, an enchanted evening had passed as we danced to the music of Johnny Gould's Orchestra. This was a memorable evening for all.
